Conflict of Interest Principles

1. The content of CME activities must be based on evidence that is accepted by the medical profession. This evidence may be drawn from research, performance guidelines, epidemiological data, and current practice.
2. All financial relationships between commercial entities and providers of certified continuing medical education must be disclosed to both the planners and the participants. The CME provider must ensure that the planning and implementation of CME activities are accomplished with no influence from commercial entities. CME providers must disclose the process by which they manage conflicts of interests with commercial entities as well as individuals and organizations.
3. All financial relationships between commercial entities and individuals responsible for planning, implementing and presenting educational activities must be disclosed both to the accredited CME provider and to the participants of the educational activities, and managed appropriately.
